1. On 8 and 9 April, the Office of Security (OS) sponsored a Security Adjudication Standards Seminar. 5. The Office of Information Services (OIS) briefed Edward Levine of Senator Durenberger's staff on the progress of the Historical Review Program (HRP). Mr. Levine had asked for the briefing in preparation for a speech he will give to the Organization of American Historians in New York on the subject "Can Historians Affect the System?" Overall, Mr. Levine seemed satisfied with the program. He volunteered to give his speech materials to OIS for prior review to avoid the possibility of compromising classified information.

6. The Office of Information Technology (OIT) has essentially completed and is going through extensive testing of the new unclassified phone system (New Building Communications Project) prior to activation the weekend of 18-21 April. Ad hoc use of the system has already begun by Headquarters customers, with call volumes approaching calls per day.

11. To enhance the security of the DCI Parking Garage, an auto-alert system to notify the guard of approaching vehicles and additional flood lighting to illuminate the DCI garage entrance have been installed by OL. The ~~pop-up barrier project has also been completed.~~

14. The second of the Soviet Realities Institute's weekly seminars--a noontime series on Soviet Foreign Policy directed by [redacted] of SOVA--began in the Headquarters Building on 7 April. The course director explained that the seminar will serve as a forum for the exchange of views between the participants--24 mid-level Agency professionals from the DI, DO and DS&T--and speakers who are leading Soviet specialists from the Agency and academia. He then provided a background for these future sessions by discussing the impact of Soviet domestic politics on foreign policy decision-making, and examining the growth of Soviet foreign policy commitments over the past 30 years.

16. Midcareer 96 finishes this week with a domestic field trip to San Francisco and Los Angeles. The students will be visiting Ford Aerospace, Rockwell International's B-1 Plant, and the National Narcotics Border Interdiction Center at Long Beach. They will discuss organizational issues with representatives of these organizations. The course will conclude on Friday, 11 April, with meetings with the Executive Director and the DDCI-designate.

17. Assistance to Agency employees reaps long-term benefits. In appreciation to the Agency's Public Service Aid Society (PSAS) for its financial assistance, a former Agency employee who had been the recipient of a PSAS loan in 1967 added a $100 contribution in his final payment to PSAS. Even though this employee resigned from the Agency in 1982, he conscientiously continued to honor the debt. In this final payment, he advised the PSAS counselor that as a way of saying thanks to PSAS for assisting him in his time of need, he intended to make additional contributions to assist others, as his financial situation permitted.

18. The Office of Personnel (OP) has received 332 responses to the 16 March Washington Post ad aimed at teachers. Ninety-one of these are under consideration for the Career Trainee Program and/or Office of External Development/DO, 37 for OTE direct hire, and 20 for possible DO direct hire. Another 137 are under review for a variety of positions throughout other Directorates. Additional information and resumes are being requested from the remaining 47.

19. Meetings were held separately with the Director of Air Force Intelligence (AF/OIS) and the Executive Officer of the Naval Intelligence Command (NIC) to discuss their willingness to identify experienced officers and enlisted personnel separating from those commands. Both were very supportive, noting that they have active programs to assist persons leaving their service to find employment. AF/OIS provided four resumes on the spot, NIC three. Two of these seven may be appropriate for entry via the Career Trainee Program, two are candidates for direct hire by the DO, and two may have potential for hire by other Agency components. Both commands promised many more resumes or leads within a few weeks.
